FREE AGENCY AT STAKE

WHILE in Berlin the other day attending the organisation of the new stake, I met a young man who had lost his hand just a short time before. I expressed my concern and sympathy as I saw him standing there with his arm in a sling. This is his story.

He was living in East Berlin, and while working in West Berlin his hand was crushed so badly in the machinery where he was working that it had to be amputated. The shock and loss of blood before reaching the hospital almost cost him his life.

While he was in the hospital in this serious condition, they sent for his wife and two little children to come from East Berlin.

While they were there restrictions were imposed to prevent any citizen from leaving East Berlin. As a result of this accident, the whole family is now in West Berlin where they can remain and where they are planning to make their home. They are so happy to be free from the domination under which they have been living and to be where they can worship and participate freely with the Saints in the new stake, that they actually feel that the losing of his hand is a blessing in disguise.

God's greatest gift to man is his free agency. In fact, we all know that Satan rebelled against God, and we read in Moses 4 : 3 :

" Wherefore, because that Satan rebelled against me, and sought to destroy the agency of man, which I, the Lord God, had given him, and also, that I should give unto him mine own power; by the power of mine Only Begotten, I caused that he should be cast down; . . ."

The tension in the world today and the crisis facing us at the present time are the result of the struggle still going on to determine whether man shall be free or be made a slave of the state. How thankful we should be that we are living in what is known as the free world, where we can worship God according to the dictates of our own conscience and be free to choose where we will live and how.

We have been given a solution to our problems, a way to peace in the world, a plan of life and salvation to all who will accept it.

" For God so loved the world, that He gave His only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in Him should not perish, but have everlasting life." (John 3 : 16)

He has again established His kingdom here upon the earth and through the Gospel, which was revealed, and the Priesthood, which has been restored, the way is clear, our responsibilities are great.

"TRUTH WILL PREVAIL"

by William Michael Burdett

Historic Highlights of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints in northern England

DURING the trying period of 1837 the Church took one great step forward in its missionary endeavours. The elders were being sent out in ever-increasing numbers, and the honest and faithful were believing and accepting the gospel. Wilford Woodruff had met with great success in the southern states, Parley P. Pratt was teaching in the Toronto area where he converted John Taylor, and the Prophet Joseph Smith himself went on an extended mission to Canada that year. As a result of the success of these brethren, many of the Saints, especially those in Canada, were desirous that their families in England, Scotland, Wales and Ireland be introduced to the Gospel.

The decision to open a mission in Britain was a bold one, especially at a time when the Saints were enduring bitter persecution in Ohio and Missouri; nevertheless, in June of 1827 Heber C. Kimball was called by revelation to preside over such a mission. This was to be the first foreign mission of the Church of Christ in the last days.

Elder Kimball, together with Orson Hyde, Willard Richards and Joseph Fielding, left Kirtland to open the mission in Great Britain. The Kirtland elders were met in New York by some Canadian elders, John Goodson, Isaac Russell and John Snyder. The party then booked passage on the packet ship Garrick, and on July 1, 1837 the small ship was under full sail bound for the shores of Britain.

The journey lasted twenty days and the brethren made good use of their time by bearing their testimonies to everyone they came in contact with, and on one occasion they were able to preach the gospel of Jesus Christ to the ship's entire 300 passengers and crew. During the voyage, Elder Kimball blessed a dying child and restored its health.

The first warming tones of sunlight of the 20th of July softened the black waters of the River Mersey emptying into the Irish Sea at Liverpool, and as the Garrick dropped anchor in the bay a small dinghy rowed out from the shore to greet the ship. Four of the seven missionaries were among the first passengers to be rowed ashore, and when the boat was within six or seven feet of the pier, President Kimball leaped from the gunwale to the shore to become the first apostle in modern history to set foot on British soil.

The first two days were spent in Liverpool, where the elders met in council to seek the Lord for direction and success. In response to their prayers, the answer came: "Go to Preston."

The 22nd of July was election day in Preston. Queen Victoria had ascended the throne but a short time before and had called for a general election of members of Parliament. The town was at its gayest. Bands were playing; flags were flying; men, women and children were parading and frolicking; streets were bedecked with vari-coloured streamers and ribbons, bearing mottoes and catchphrases such as one would expect to see on occasions of great political significance. Just as the coach bearing the missionaries reached its destination, a large banner was unfurled above their heads with the inscription: "TRUTH WILL PREVAIL." With joy in their hearts, the stalwart messengers of truth caught the spirit of the favourable omen and cried aloud: "Amen! Thanks be to God! Truth will prevail!"

Upon the arrival of the missionaries in Preston, Joseph Fielding sought out his brother, the Reverend James Fielding. Reverend Fielding invited the brethren to the Vauxhall Particular Baptist Chapel on Sunday to hear him address the congregation. As Elder Kimball sat and listened, he prayed that the way might be opened for them to preach the truths of the Restored Gospel to this fine group of people, who were earnestly seeking the truth. His prayers were answered when the Reverend announced that there would be an elder from the Latter-day Saints who would preach the sermon that evening.

In the evening a large crowd gathered in the Vauxhall Chapel to hear Elder Heber C. Kimball declare that "an angel had visited the earth and committed the everlasting gospel to man." Bearing his testimony to the first principles of the Gospel, he sat down amid the rejoicing of the congregation and cries of "Glory to God!"

One week from that first day that the gospel was preached in a public meeting, the first baptisms were scheduled. The enthusiasm of the people to comply with the first principles of the Gospel can best be described in Elder Kimball's own words:

"Two male candidates, when they had changed their clothes at a distance of several rods from the place where I was standing in the water, were so anxious to obey the Gospel that they ran with all their might to the water, each wishing to be baptised first. The younger, George D. Watt, being quicker of foot than the elder, outran him, and came first into the water."

As a crowd of between 7,000 and 9,000 people watched on the bank, nine souls were "born again" unto a newness of life. Within three weeks of the arrival of the missionaries in England, many souls were baptised in Preston and a thriving branch of the Church was established.

The Church membership grew rapidly in and around Preston and within six months it became expedient to hold a conference. The first general conference of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints in Great

Preston Market Place, where the early missionaries held the first street meetings

Britain, convened on Christmas Day of 1837 in the Temperance Hall (a large building with a small arena which had formerly been usd as a "cock pit;" as a result it was sometimes called by that name) in Preston, Lancashire, with about three hundred Saints in attendance. In spite of attempts by enemies of the Church to disrupt the meeting by cutting off the gas supply to the lighting, the meeting continued under the direction of the Lord's apostles on the day that is celebrated as His birthday. On that day Joseph Fielding was ordained an elder, ten priests and seven teachers were ordained to minister in the various branches, and over one hundred little children were blessed. The success of the first conference was but a glimmer of the light of success which was to shine forth in the ensuing years.

As the time for the second British conference approached it became necessary for Elder Kimball to return to the Church in the States in aid of its struggle in Missouri and Illinois. The Church membership had swelled to close to two thousand and was firmly rooted with branches in Preston, Penwortham, Walkerford, Thornley, Ribchester, Chatburn, Clithero, Brashe Lees, Waddington, Leyland Moss, Leyland Lane, Buxton, Eccleston, Hunter's Hill, Whittle, Dauber's Lane, Bamber Bridge, Longton, Southport, Downham, Burnley, Bolton, Chorley and other places. At this conference, held in Preston, each of the branches was represented. It was here that Elder Kimball and the brethren who were leaving with him bore their farewell testimonies and gave their last words of instruction and encouragement to the Saints. On the 20th of April, Elder Kimball, Elder Hyde and Elder Russell boarded the good ship Garrick, the same craft which brought them to England some nine months before, leaving Elder Joseph Fielding as president of the mission with Willard Richards and William Clayton as his counsellors.

The years moved on to 1840. For three years now the servants of the Lord had been preaching the truths of the Restored Gospel in the Isles. For three years the missionaries had been embarking and disembarking from the docks at Liverpool, yet none had felt inspired to spread the message of the Gospel in that convenient city. Apparently this mission had been saved for the efforts of John Taylor, who had been born and raised in Britain, and now in 1840 returned in the capacity of minister to the people and apostle of the Lord Jesus Christ. Elder Taylor arrived in Liverpool together with Elder Wilford Woodruff and Elder Theodore Turley on January 11, 1840.

Upon arriving, they immediately called upon Brother Taylor's in-laws,

George Q. Cannon, early Church leader, first heard the Gospel in Liverpool

the Captain George Cannon and his family. When they left them to go to Preston to meet the mission presidency, the captain's wife remarked to her 12-year-old son George Q., who was later to serve as first counsellor to three presidents of the Church, " Your uncle is a man of God."

Two days after their arrival they met with President Joseph Fielding at the home of Willard Richards; and here it was that the inspiration came that directed John Taylor back to Liverpool, where in the ensuing months more than thirty souls were baptized, including three of the Cannon children who were to figure so prominently in the history of the Church.

On one occasion, Elder Taylor and Elder Fielding attended services which were held by the congregation of a Mr. Matthews. Matthews, when the first missionaries had arrived in Britain, had invited them to speak to his congregation, and then as his flock became more interested in the message of the restoration, abruptly broke off his relations with the truth and took up the fight with Satan. This particular time, Mr. Matthews was not present, and they listened to one of his devout young followers conduct the service. He remarked on the woeful situation of the religious world and noted the absence of spiritual power and authority. He prayed for the gifts of the Holy Ghost and for the second coming of Christ.

Not one to miss an opportunity such as this, Elder Taylor arose and asked for permission to speak, and then proceeded to expound on the restoration, the answer to this young man's prayer. The message was accepted with great excitement because it was familiar to the congregation. Apparently as a result of Mr. Matthews' early association with the Church, he had picked up much of the doctrine and was preaching it as his own. He had also taught the congregation many untruths about the "Mormons," and suspecting the religious affiliation of these two strangers in their group, the brethren were asked if they were "Mormons." John Taylor replied:

"No. We belong to the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, called by our enemies the 'Mormon' Church."

Suspicions confirmed, the brethren were refused permission to preach in the chapel. This did not, however, quell the interest instilled in the hearts of many who recognised the truth during that meeting, and the elders continued meeting with many of the congregation at their homes in cottage meetings and many accepted the challenge for baptism into the Kingdom of our Father.

The year of 1840 was to be one of the most eventful years of the Church in Britain, for from April of 1840 until April of 1841 the majority of the Council of the Twelve Apostles met and directed the affairs of the mission and the Church from these lands. The nine apostles who were in the land during that year were Elders Brigham Young, Heber C. Kimball, Parley P. Pratt, Orson Pratt, Wilford Woodruff, John Taylor and George A. Smith. During the year, Elder Orson Hyde arrived, and Elder Willard Richards was ordained to the apostleship according to revelation. Under the direction of Brigham Young the Quorum met many times in Preston and also in the city of Manchester, where the Gospel had first been preached by William Clayton. Four conferences of the Church were held in Preston under his guidance, and the Millennial Star, with Parley P. Pratt as editor, was established as the official organ of communication of the Saints in the British Isles. Publication of the Star has continued without interruption to the present day. Brigham Young's personal account of the one year and fourteen days of the Twelve's presence in Great Britain is recorded as follows:

"It was with a heart full of thanksgiving and gratitude to God, my Heavenly Father, that I reflected upon His dealings with me and my brethren of the Twelve during the past year of my life, which was spent in England. It truly seemed a miracle to look upon the contrast between our landing and departing from Liverpool. We landed in the spring of 1840, as strangers in a strange land and penniless, but through the mercy of God we have gained many friends in the Kingdom of Great Britain, baptised between seven and eight thousand, printed five thousand Books of Mormon, three thousand Hymn Books, two thousand five hundred volumes of the Millennial Star, and fifty thousand tracts, and emigrated to Zion one thousand souls, established a permanent shipping agency which will be a great blessing to the Saints, and have left sown in the hearts of many thousands the seeds of eternal truth, which will bring forth fruit to the honour and glory of God, and yet we have lacked nothing to eat, drink, or wear: In all these things I acknowledge the hand of God." (Millennial Star, Volume 26, page 7.)

With a year's labours behind them and their work in the mission completed, the Quorum met as a body in Manchester for the last time on British soil. Here arrangements were made for seven of the Twelve to return to America.

The brave era of missionary work in the British Isles started by Heber C. Kimball and his six companions, then strengthened by Brigham Young and the Quorum of the Twelve Apostles, continues to this day uninterrupted by persecutions and two world wars. Today four missions carry on the work pioneered by these early stalwarts of truth. This account has dealt particularly with happenings taking place within the present boundaries of the North British Mission. Unmentioned here were the activities of John Taylor in Ireland, the faith of Orson Pratt as he prayed—and received more than an answer to his prayers—for two hundred souls in Scotland, the works of Dan Jones in Wales, where over three thousand members were brought into the Church between the year of 1845 to 1848, the baptising of six hundred United Brethren by Wilford Woodruff in Herefordshire. This glorious and illustrious past is ours to build upon today and tomorrow, and may our efforts be as valiant as the efforts of those who have gone before, for the tomorrows of today will become the yesterdays of the future.

THE THING WE SHOULD DO...

Remarks by

President N. Eldon Tanner

of the West European Mission at a meeting of the leaders of the stakes and missions of northern England

I AM very happy, indeed, to be with you this evening on this occasion. I certainly wish to congratulate you on the fine representation you have from each of your stakes and from the mission. I have enjoyed very much President Thorn's exposition regarding the new programme that is outlined by the Church whereby every member of the Church is to act as a missionary and where teaching by the missionaries is to be done in groups.

It was most encouraging and inspiring to hear the fine testimonies and the spirit with which these leaders in the stake and the mission have dedicated themselves to the work of carrying out this programme. It is my intention to outline as clearly as I can, what the programme is and how each of you can help in carrying it throughout your wards and branches in the stakes and missions. As far as I am concerned, when the Prophet says this is the thing we should do, I am prepared to do it whether I understand clearly or whether I don't. I was attending a committee meeting in Salt Lake just prior to the Mission Presidents' Seminar. One of the members in the Committee said, "I don't understand why we do this," and Brother Romney said, "The President of the Church has said to do this; is that not good enough for you ? It is good enough for me." Personally, I feel the same way and there is no question in my mind about President David O. McKay being a prophet of God. The more I am associated with him the more I feel a tingling in my body when I am with him and when I think of the work he is doing and think of the inspiration, the revelation he receives from our Heavenly Father. I was happy to hear one of our missionaries, not long ago, bear this testimony: "I know that Joseph Smith is a prophet of God and I know even better that David O. McKay is a prophet of God." Now that is a wonderful thing to know better that David O. McKay is a prophet of God. Now that is a wonderful thing to know better that the person who is closer to you is a prophet of God. He is the man that has been chosen to lead us in this generation and how fortunate we are. We are the only people in all the world that have a prophet to lead us. In fact, the only people that have the same organisation following Christ's mission here upon the earth. What a wonderful blessing and privilege it is to belong to such an organisation and particularly to be called to go into all the world to preach the Gospel.

The growth and progress that has taken place here in the British Isles during the past few years should give us better vision for what might be done and courage to go forward with an ever-increasing desire and determination to do that which we have been called to do. I was thinking as I was sitting here by President Livesey and President Bates, about the first time I met them six months ago. They were counsellors in the Manchester Stake Presidency. It is interesting to note that when the Manchester Stake was organised there were people who said,

"What's the rush; why do this so prematurely; why organise a stake in Manchester when they don't have that many people?"

Now, here we are with the stake divided and two new stakes. Then, too, when you realise that in the month of July we had 1,197 baptisms reported in the British Isles, or about 240 people for the week for the five weeks reported, which means three wards a month of 400 each. This means that we would have well over 10,000 new converts baptised each year with 25 wards of 400 each and this would mean three stakes with eight wards each having 400 members. That's the way the work is rolling forward right today under the organisation we have—the same number of missionaries and without introducing this new programme. Now the Lord hath said (as recorded in the 88th Section of the D. & C.), "Behold, I will hasten my work in its time." I say that the time of hastening is here. I should like to read something from a talk given by Elder Gordon Hinckley, Assistant to the Twelve, at the April Conference General Priesthood Meeting.

"In 1834 in Kirtland, Ohio, in a little log cabin, Joseph, the Prophet, called the Priesthood together and then he called Hyrum Smith and Oliver Cowdery, Brigham Young, Heber C. Kimball, Parley Pratt, Orson Pratt and then William E. M'Lellin to speak, and after they had spoken, Joseph Smith spoke and this is what he said, 'I want to tell you this: You know no more concerning the results of this work and what lies before you as elders of Israel, and before this people than a group of children'. That is the way this young prophet spoke to a group of men, many of whom were older than he, men of wide experience, business and world affairs. Then he went on to say that this work will fill the whole earth and all nations will have to hear the proclamation of the Gospel."

I really do marvel because a young man in 1834, 127 years ago, when he was standing before these men said that this must be proclaimed to all the world. He went on and said many other things. They would marvel, wouldn't they, today if this same group of men were standing here and could see the progress that is taking place in the Church missionary work and the set-up which is prepared for us now.

We have approximately 9,000 missionaries in the field today and approximately 7,000 stake and district missionaries. Last year we had 45,000 convert baptisms in the Church and now in the British Isles it would be over 10,000 and you multiply that by the number of missionaries there are in the world and see how near we will be to 100,000 by the end of this year.

President McKay has asked that every member be a missionary and he has asked that three different times. He asked you in 1923, he asked it in 1951 and then he asked it again in 1961, and now he has given us a programme whereby we can carry out the call that has been made of us. Personally, I have had some very fine experiences trying to be a missionary as the prophet has asked us to be, not as an ordained missionary, but just as I have been travelling around.

Last Saturday, a week ago, I sat some time with a man who had directed plays in London—3 or 4 different plays, some of which have run several months and for some reason or other when I am talking to the man, he always insists that I talk about the Church. Sometimes he insists because I say, "What do you know about the Mormon Church?" And then I say, "Would you like to know more?" He happens to be living in a place where we have no missionaries at the present time and it would not be easy for him to attend any cottage meetings. I decided to tell him a little about the Church and he was keenly interested. On some of the things I told him and some of the things I left him he said,

"You know, that seems to be so sensible and so reasonable—everything you have told me on the ideas of eternal progression and having your family with you throughout eternity."

Now, there is a man who is well read. A very talented man who is prepared to accept and listen to, and accept the simple testimony of an elder of Israel. The simple plan of life and salvation, and that is true and we are the only people who can tell it. I was talking to a motor car executive and he again in response to these questions wanted to know more about the Gospel and he said,

"The thing that bothers me, Mr. Tanner, is when I see on television and hear on the radio all this advertising that is going on continuously to season our youth and encourage them to participate in the things that are not important and that will be harmful to them, and I wish that something could be done about it."

I then turned to the 89th Section of the Doctrine and Covenants and said,

"Our Prophet said 130 years ago that evil and designing men would go about to get our people to partake of these things and we were given the Word of Wisdom to tell us not to do it'."

When he left, I said, "Do you really want our missionaries to come to your home?" He said, "I certainly do." I said, "Will you have your young boy there?" (He has a boy 14 or 15 years of age.) He said, "I certainly will." Why should we apologise or hesitate to say at any time to anybody, "What do you know about the Mormon Church?" This isn't your Church, it isn't my Church, it is the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints, which has the plan of life and salvation that has been restored to us through a prophet of God and we have been honoured by being called and accepted as members of the Church and Kingdom here upon the earth. This plan of life and salvation, as taught by the Church, as accepted and lived, is the plan which will make it possible for us to go back into the presence of our Heavenly Father and dwell with Him and enjoy the highest degree of glory in the Celestial Kingdom. Brethren, when we have these things, we have what the world needs and wants more than anything else. At least, they need it more than anything else in the world. Now we are given a charge by a prophet of God to go and help take it to the rest of the world. Let us accept that challenge as we should.

I would like to give you two like examples or experiences that different ones have had: A new convert to the Church bore her testimony and this is what she said:

"One of your girls tried taking me to Mutual and I went to Mutual with her sometimes, then she asked me to go to Sacrament Meeting with her. After I had gone to Sacrament Meeting with her a time or two she said, 'I would like to have a couple of missionaries go into your home'. I replied, 'What! my home with my father a minister?' She said, 'Yes, I would like to have them come and teach you the Gospel. You see what goes on in our Mutual and in our Sacrament Meeting. I wish you would ask your father if the missionaries could come and teach.' I went and asked my father, and after some hesitation, and with great reluctance, he said I could have the missionaries come into our home."

Two of the missionaries went to teach her and while they were teaching her in one room, her father sat in another room listening to them through the door. She is now a member of the Church and her father has resigned from his position as minister of that Church. Because the girl believed and knew that God lived, and that God and His Son, Jesus Christ, are personal beings of flesh and bone and spirit, that we are led by today a prophet of God, she wasn't afraid to have it taken to a ministers' daughter because she knew she was a fine girl and wanted to give her the best there was available, and the girl accepted.

I could go on and tell you experience after experience of my own and of others, but I don't need to do that. I can tell you this that my experiences have given me a great deal of joy and satisfaction when I think of the people that have been interested and that I have been able to say to them,

"What do you know about the Mormons? I think we have something you would be interested in; would you like to know more about it?"

I think of one fine family. He had been a partner of mine for some time. We were sitting at lunch one day and I asked him,

"What do you know about the Church?" I said, "We have a programme that would be just wonderful for your boys. Come over to our Sacrament Meeting next Sunday and I'll introduce you to the superintendent of the Young Men's Mutual Improvement Association."

He said, "Could I go to your Church?" And I said, "Why, of course. It is open to everybody. Everybody is welcome." He said, "I wanted to go to the Temple in Salt Lake and they wouldn't let me in."

Now there was a man I had been associated with in business for a long time and I had done nothing about introducing him to the Church. After I had invited him to go to Church, he said,

"You know, I have been interested in you and the way you lived. It has always appealed to me."

He wasn't congratulating me. He was congratulating the kind of life a Mormon lives. Anyway he said,

"I don't know whether my wife will come, or not. She is a chain smoker—a chain smoker of cigarettes."

They went to their clubs and drank socially and so on. " But ", he said, " I'll be there and I will bring my boys." He was there with his wife and family. I introduced him to the Mutual Improvement Association officers and also to a couple of our good stake missionaries. They have not missed a Sacrament Meeting since, when they could be in attendance. They have all joined the Church and so did two of his brothers and their families, and one of his sisters and her family are now all members of the Church. I often wonder what the position would be if I hadn't asked him if he would like to know more about the Mormon Church. I just tremble as I think of meeting him on that great day of judgment and he could point his finger at me and say,

" I worked with you for years, you never even told me about the Gospel. You didn't even mention it."

And, as he meets me now, he says every once in a while,

" I sure appreciate our membership in this Church. It means more to me than anything else in the world."

He is very well fixed financially and one day he said to me,

" I don't know whether I have a testimony like yours or not (he heard me bear my testimony to the BYU students) but I will tell you this : If anyone were to point a gun at my head today and say, ' Look. Give up your earthly posessions or give up your membership in this Church ', it wouldn't take me one minute to decide and I would remain with the Church."

Christ said to Peter,

" I have prayed for thee that thy faith fail not, and when thou art converted, strengthen thy brethren."

I think that applies to us just as much as it did to Peter. If you were converted, then what are your responsibilities? To strengthen your brethren, and then when you have strengthened your brethren, all of you go out and make it possible for others to come in and receive this great and glorious Gospel. Now, how are we going to do that ?

First, it is important that we have a programme set up whereby we can make this Gospel available to the people so that they can accept it and understand it and do it as rapidly as we can. Our prophet said, " Now is the time to do group teaching." And there is no question in my mind but what he knows what he is talking about. " Now ", he says, " this is the way to do it." President Thorn has told you that his missionaries are available to go out and help. We should go out and ask our neighbours the important questions, " What do you know about the Mormons " and " would you like to learn more ? "

It is important that we have a homogeneous group made up of people who want to know more about the Gospel. The missionaries will emphasise this as they go around, and you will hear more about it because it is campaigned to get us to do our duty. It is important that we do not just invite everybody or anybody to one of these meetings. We should screen them by making sure, by asking them the two questions. And then invite only those who want to know more to attend the meeting. They, then are not there to argue. They are not there to prove you are wrong. They are there to learn more. They are there in your home as guests and it is the responsibility of the elders to teach them while they are there. Take advantage of the opportunity to do for them what they have asked. You are not trying to force anything on them at all. Now see what happens:

Suppose that I have invited you into my home with your wives and some of your children. The missionaries are teaching you there and I have borne testimony to you that it is very important. At a very opportune time, I say,

"Brethren, I know with every fibre of my being, that what these young men have told you tonight is true, that God did appear to Joseph Smith and that we have a prophet at the head of our Church today."

A testimony borne like this by the person who has invited his friends into the house is more convincing than anything the elders can say. He is considered by them just to be a lay member.

Group teaching does a great deal for fellowshipping the people right at the time they are learning the Gospel. They realise that they have friends as they join the Church, and the person who invites them into his home will feel that they "belong to him," and he will take a keen interest in helping them become fellowshipped. Isn't that right? In fact, he will be telling his neighbours that these are the people that he helped bring into the Church. Then these people who have been taught as a group will be talking among their neighbours and they will be asking, "Why wasn't I invited?" Also, the members will be asking if it will be possible for them to hold group meetings in their homes and that's the way it will spread; in fact, that is what is happening in the areas where group teaching is now being used.

Another thing about group teaching that is so helpful and important is that it is much easier for those in the group to accept the Gospel and overcome the habits which they have to overcome if they feel that others are doing it at the same time. Then too, the missionaries are using their time more profitably by teaching several at a time instead of one or two at a time. Group teaching is the way we are going to meet all the people with the Gospel message. And, as President Thorn pointed out, it will spread from one family to another with each wanting to see his friend hear the Gospel plan and accept it and become one with them.

We need not hesitate or feel apologetic about inviting our friends to come and have these missionaries teach them the Gospel. It is the greatest message in the world and what the world needs more than anything else. This is a great programme which gives everyone an opportunity to participate. As I said when I attended one of your conferences, "This is a lot of fun." Now, I hope I am not misunderstood when I say, "a lot of fun." Man is that he might have a joy, and nothing will bring you greater joy, I can assure, than to be a good member of this Church doing what you should be doing, and in bringing other people to share with you this great Gospel. Nothing will give you greater joy and happiness and the Lord will bless you as you go forward in it. Be humble, be prayerful and be aware of your responsibilities. Be aware of the fact that people are there waiting and that you are members of the Church and you can take this message to them without any inconvenience to yourself and it will bring great joy and happiness to you as you do that. Let's take it to them with a prayer in our hearts, and whenever we have the opportunity, we should never hesitate to bear our testimony to the truthfulness of the Gospel, which I do in the name of Jesus Christ, Amen.

BUILDING A LIFE

by Nina B. Reid

Let's be Master Builders
As our life's construction grows,
Let every minute detail
Follow the pattern He bestows.

The Architect has skilfully
Drawn up the plans for us,
And now we are charged
To build our lives according to that trust.

We have the materials for a good foundation.
Let's make sure the forms are straight.
For it is up to us whether they stand the test
As we journey under this mortal weight.

Next comes the main floor of the Master's plan,
This part of our life we conquer or fall.
We cultivate good, make errors too.
But struggle we must, for this is our call.

As this construction takes its form
Most of us re-arrange the plans
By building rooms of malice and greed
Patterned by the tempter's hand.

There are several rooms that we're sure to build,
There are rooms marked "Right" and "Wrong".

Sometimes the temptations of the low slinking one
Prohibit us from building the rooms that belong.

The rooms we see profused with light
Reach hungrily for the erring souls,
While the rooms at the far dark end of the hall
Are averse and reluctant to loose their hold.

There's a brilliancy coming from under the door
That's marked "Faith in God Above."
There's a transluscent splendid shining 'neath
The door that reads "Pure Love."

From this floor we can build up or down,
Up towards light and life
Or down where darkness e'er prevails
In never ending strife.

The stories of our life can reach great heights
If at night when solemnity commands
We give thanks on our knees to God on High
So curtailing our repeated demands.

And then comes the dawn with its challenging hours
Bringing to us joys and fears.
But fear cannot live where faith prevails
Likewise—faith is crushed by fear.

And so with each new hour as our construction grows
Let's use faith and prayer as our tools
To build a life that will prove to Him
That His architecture rules.

BUILDING IN THE NORTH BR

Interior of the newly-completed Manchester Ward Chapel

ITISH MISSION

THE enlarged Church Building Programme in Britain began only 40 miles from the point at which the first missionaries to England arrived. Manchester, which has long been a hub of Church activity in England, was to have its chapel enlarged and modernised as the first step in this new programme.

In the Manchester and Leeds stakes and in the North British Mission at the present time there are ten chapels under construction: Manchester, Wythenshawe, Liverpool, Rochdale, Leeds, Dewsbury, Sunderland, York, West Hartlepool, and Newton Aycliffe.

The Manchester Ward Chapel, in Wythenshawe, Manchester, is nearly completed at the time this article is written, and the Newton Aycliffe Chapel has its building to a point where it is easy to distinguish its beautiful lines.

All through the North of England, members of the Church, missionaries and friends are rolling up their sleeves and pitching into the great task of erecting these buildings. It's a common practice to see many of the Saints at the building sites in their every spare moment. The missionaries spend many of their "days off" at the chapels working side by side with their brothers and sisters and often with investigators whom they bring along.

There have been many heart-warming experiences associated with this marvellous building programme. Men have a habit of walking in and saying, "I understand this church is being built by volunteer labour. May I help?" A seaman from Manchester spent his entire leave at home working on the Wythenshawe Chapel and was baptised before going back to sea. Experiences like these have been noted in each area where construction is in progress.

In anticipation of time when these buildings will accommodate the entire church programme, the Saints of the North British Mission and the stakes are eagerly working to speed the day when these buildings will be finished. One brother, when asked why he spent so much time on the site, said,

"We have to build these chapels ourselves. No one else is going to do it for us."

It's a thrilling programme and we are pleased to be part of it.

CONVENTION

A VERY successful youth conference was held in Sunderland on the 23rd of September, 1961. Under the able planning of the Newcastle District MIA Board, games races, contests and other types of recreation were enjoyed by the young people, many of whom were not members of the Church.

After barbecued hamburgers, everyone gathered around the camp fire and was entertained by several impromptu musical numbers and community songs.

As the light faded in the west, strong testimonies were borne by young people called from the audience and by President Grant S. Thorn, the president of the North British Mission.

OPPORTUNITY KNOCKS

by

Fred W. Oates

1st Counsellor,

North British Mission

IT is said a millionaire some years ago entered a bookstore and amazed the assistant by the number of books he bought—all classics dressed in costly binding and written by the world's most famous authors—a magnificent library! When the last book was ordered he said, "Now, I'd like something I can read. Have you any 'blood and thunder'?"

What good to him was this great library of books, bought to adorn the shelves in the beautiful room of his mansion? Money made it possible for him to read the best books and cultivate his mind, but missing the golden opportunity of learning, he only had barrenness of mind with no sense of appreciation of the great works of the masters; instead he chose to rise no higher than the pages of cheap fiction.

Jesus said to the young man, "Sell all thou hast and come and follow me." What a wonderful invitation, but it became a lost opportunity—for "He was sad at that saying, and went away grieved; for he had great possessions." Here again opportunity knocked and never returned in like manner, for the things of the world were more important to this young man than the opportunity of following the Saviour.

Nicodemus, who would not take the opportunity to prove his allegiance by day, lost the blessing of discipleship because of worldly position, and what men might say of him.

Felix told Paul that when the opportune time came he would listen to him, but two years passed, Felix lost his position and was recalled to Rome, thereby missing the opportunity to receive the testimony of one who had made the most of all his opportunities.

History is full of golden opportunities lost or accepted in every cause. Each day opportunities come with conditions attached which means we must all be prepared to accept the same. To those prepared to give in time and labour will come the great advantages of the Gospel plan which gives the opportunity to be of service to the Lord and His programme. This is a day of inspiration and all may have the blessings the Lord has to offer, for if we work in faith we will find Him waiting in His great love to shower us with His gifts. Opportunities are made possible by the Lord, for remember He has said, "Ask, and ye shall receive; seek, and ye shall find; knock, and it shall be opened unto you."

TEMPLE SCHEDULE FOR 1962

PRESIDENT Selvoy J. Boyer, President of the London Temple, has released the suggested temple schedule for 1962. Leaders of stakes and missions should divide these dates between the wards and branches in each area, and if any dates conflict with stake or district conferences, arrangements may be made with President Boyer to select a more suitable date.

Temple admittance is granted to those who have a current temple recommend, which must be presented at each visit to the temple. The 1962 schedule is as follows:

Of Stake And District Events

July 29—Eastwood Ward held a social as a preliminary to Ward Conference. The members' varied talents were again proved to be of the highest order and numbers on the programme included songs by Kathleen Severn, duets from Pat and Phil, instrumental solos by Brother Anthony, Marion Barnes and Brother Sunderland, and a skit presented by the Primary officers.

August 27—Birmingham Ward Relief Society sisters left their husbands to take care of the children while they went on their annual outing to Weston-super-Mare. Beautiful weather and lovely countryside gave added enjoyment to this day away from the responsibilities of home.

August 28—Basildon District MIA held a sports day at Lake Meadows, Billericay. Every branch entered the contests and brought supporters to cheer the teams. Some of the less energetic members enjoyed the boating pool while others searched for breakfast mushrooms around the sports field.

September 2—Bristol, Bath and Weston-super-Mare Branches held an Aaronic Priesthood programme under the direction of the Bristol Branch Presidency in the Bristol Chapel. The afternoon session had the theme, "Future leadership—our responsibility" and included talks by President C. Wheeler and President Green before time was allowed for testimonies. After a break for refreshment each branch was called on to present a number at a talent show and these items proved that a surprising variety of talents lie hidden in the district. At 6 p.m. the camp fire was lit and the sisters were invited to come and give a feminine touch to the camp-fire songs.

September 19—Scarborough Relief Society sisters invited the Priesthood to their opening social. The Branch Presidency and members' husbands came in force to hear previews of the new lesson courses given by the class leaders and to sample the tasty refreshments which the sisters are noted for serving.

September 19—Grimsby Relief Society had the novel idea of presenting a shoe fashion show at the opening social. After the lesson previews had been entertainingly presented by Sister Lloyd, Caster, Bushell, Bland and Jenner, sixty pairs of shoes which had been supplied by Brother Eley were modelled by Susan Eley, Denise Johnson and Carol Nichols.

Fifty children and sixteen adults from Basildon Branch chose Epping Forest for the annual Sunday School outing. Most of the time the adults were content to sit and admire the scenery, but the youngsters occupied themselves by playing rounders and chasing squirrels. Even though some of the party had spent most of the day running around, they still managed to find sufficient energy to join others from Basildon District at an MIA Achievement Night held in the Southend Chapel.

Deaths

Cassidy—Brother Stanley Cassidy of Rotherham Ward passed away on March 18, 1961. The funeral service was conducted by Bishop Nettleship and the grave was dedicated by Brother Joseph Hampstead. Brother Cassidy was a faithful member of the ward and served courageously, in spite of a long-standing physical disability. He was well loved and will long be remembered by those who knew him.

It is significant indeed that there in Berlin, the centre of the struggle, the seat of the conflict, where the free world is standing toe to toe with the dictators, the Church and Kingdom of God has established a new stake of Zion. Here, we have men holding the Priesthood of God presiding over the stake and directing the activities where the true plan of life and salvation is taught—where freedom and free agency are all important.

In contrast, behind the iron curtain man is living under the domination of man and is a slave of the state. What a contrast in the lives and the outlooks of these people. As we view the conditions in the world today, it is evident on every side that Satan, the adversary, is hard at work with all his cohorts determined to thwart the will and the work and the programme of our God and King, the Saviour of the world. Peace can come to the world and to the individual only as man is ready to accept and live the principles of the Gospel. It is the responsibility of every citizen, everyone who calls himself a Christian, and particularly, for every member of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints and, more particularly, for every holder of the Priesthood of God, to learn his duty and to prove himself worthy to stand in these latter days and to use influence to dedicate his life and spread the gospel of peace and to take his stand against evil.

As we lengthen our cords and strengthen our stakes, let us do all in our power to sustain and maintain God's greatest gift—free agency to man.

This month we honour . . .

Alan and Susan Carabine

of Barnstaple, Devon

. . . true "Missionary" members

TWO Latter-day Saints in Devon have caught the spirit of "Every Member a Missionary," and are seeing real success, even in an area where the Church has not been established for many years. Brother and Sister Alan Carabine, both former members of the Sunderland Branch, recently moved to Barnstaple, Devon, where Brother Carabine is at present stationed with the army. Despite the fact that there was only one other member, Sister Edith Barrett, in the Barnstaple area, the Carabines set about to tell all their new acquaintances about the Gospel, and soon had many interested investigators.

After being set apart as district missionaries by Bristol district president James Muir, they set to work in earnest to establish a branch of the Church in Barnstaple. When several of their friends were convinced of the truthfulness of the Gospel, baptismal services were arranged and held under the direction of the Bristol district mission presidency. During the summer months, services were held in the home of Sister Barrett in Westward Ho, and baptisms were performed in a large seaside tidal pool near her home. Several families have been baptised, and with the arrival of the full-time elders, a meeting place has been procured and an organised branch set up. Thanks to the dedication and faith of Brother and Sister Carabine, there is now a growing branch in Barnstaple.

Part of a crowd of members, friends and visitors who witnessed a recent baptism in Barnstaple. Brother and Sister Carabine stand in the centre of the group.

Christine Mary Light, one of a Barnstaple family who recently joined the Church, is baptised by Brother Alan Carabine.

"I had the pleasure, about 9 a.m., of baptising nine individuals and hailing them brethren and sisters in the Kingdom of God. These were the first persons baptised into the Church in a foreign land, and only the eighth day after our arrival in Preston. . . . The circumstance of baptising in the open air being somewhat novel, a concourse of between seven and nine thousand persons assembled on the banks of the river to witness the ceremony."
Heber C. Kimball
